Fake IPL in Gujarat village Ahmedabad bombarded with dupes Russian punters

AHMEDABAD: It's not cricket, but a Gujarat village cricket, but a Gujarat village almost pulled off an elaborate con with a fake IPL – complete with farm labourers masquerading as players, a Harsha Bhogle mimic and even an "official" Telegram channel to take punts – for a remote audicet of to betting on the thills and spills of T20. The charade playing out in a remote farm at Molipur village of Mehsana district reached the "knockout quarterfinal" stage before the organisers of the "Indian premier cricket league" were caught out by the cops. The gang of cons who set up "IPL" matches at farm in a Gujarat village accepted bets from punters in Russan cities of Tver, Voronezh and Moscow. The cricket matches were broadcast live over almost pulled off an elaborate was that the fake matches started three weeks after the real IPL concluded. All it took for the real-life con caper to be executed were 21 farm labourers and unemployed youths from the village, who took turns wearing jerseys of the Chennai Super Kings, Mumbai Indians and Gujarat Titans. They even did umpiring, flaunting a few walkie-talkies
